Race Timer is a small, easy-to-use and handy application which enables you to track the time taken by participants of a racing contest, with the option of setting apart the starters, finishers, losers, pre-riders, post-riders and riders who have been sidelined. At its core, it offers a simple, clean and user-friendly interface, with several customization options to suit any taste. The software provides a black panel at the bottom which displays all participants' information, including: - Start time - Finish time - Num. of laps - Time elapsed - Lap 1, 2... Race Timer allows you to specify participants according to their status: - Participants with no payment; - Participants for whom payment has not been made; - Participants who have withdrawn from the race; - Participants who have been disqualified; - Participants who have won; - Participants with the status of 'Not present'. There are some other features which make Race Timer ideal for sports events and all other short-time races. All this information can be viewed via a panel at the bottom of the program's interface, which offers a list of the participants to be distinguished into 'Main N°' 'Finished N°' 'Pre-riders N°' 'Post-riders N°' and 'Sidelined N°'. You can have a simple or detailed list of participants, for example, you can keep a list of the 36 most important winners. Regarding the number of participants who are lost to time, you can choose to have a list of top-10 losers in addition to the top-36 losers. Once every lap, time is automatically updated, and the time taken by the participants is displayed both visually and numerically, in addition to the distance covered, laps completed and distance of individual laps. This information can be viewed at the bottom panel of the Race Timer application, with the time of each participant displayed as they run or cycle. You can display the updated time on the panel when each participant runs or cycles, in addition to the time of the day, the current year and the current century. A simple yet friendly menu is displayed when the user selects the start or stop option, as well as the option to start or stop for each participant separately. 2.
